IT'S HARD TO CONVINCING YOUR CHILDREN

It's hard to convince your children that the church is the most important thing in the world when you are negligent about attending its services and supporting its work.

It's hard to convince your children that the church is the greatest institution in the world when you permit them to miss services to go elsewhere.

It's hard to convince your children that the church is to be held higher than anything when you insist that they do their homework for public school but permit them to neglect their Bible study.

It's hard to convince your children that they should respect the church when you continually criticize the leadership, belittle the teacher's work and appear a habitual faultfinder.

It's hard to convince your children the work of the church is important, when you have no part in what work is being done, either financially or personally.

It's hard to convince your children sin is a serious matter when they know you do things that are wrong, and you are not concerned about making the necessary corrections in life.

It's hard to convince there is really a heaven, and a hell, when they realize that this life is the most important thing there is to you, and they don't see you making much preparation for a life after death.

It's hard to convince your children, when you don't even try to convince them of much of anything--- just let them do their own thing.

Making Copies

It was a rough couple of weeks when the copier went down. I'm sure you noticed that the bulletins were not the same. The information was there, but they weren't very...welcoming? Oh, the information was there, but the colorful art didn't grace the front page.

I was getting ready to print my booklets for Deeper Life Camp. I ran a test copy in the morning and proofread it. When I came back from lunch, I was ready to print, except it seemed like the copier was in sleep mode and wouldn't wake up. I unplugged it, restarted it, opened doors and checked every ink level. It just wouldn't come on.

Finally, after restarting it one more time, it looked like it was going to boot up...not really. Halfway through it gave a firmware error and went back to sleep.

The repairman brought in a replacement part that didn't fix it, so he had to take the copier to the shop, leaving us with the old HP inkjet printers. They work to make a few copies, but not a whole booklet or a bulletin printed front and back. The quality is not nearly as sharp and it takes forever.

Sunday school teachers were inconvenienced (by the way, please thank the teachers who work hard to put lessons together to teach your children). A lot of things that go on behind the scenes that help make the church tick didn't get done with the same quality if they got done at all – just waiting to get our copier back so we can do them well.

It just made me think about us as a church and about each one of us individually. Are we making copies? Not paper and ink. Not color or black and white. Are we making copies of believers?

Paul wrote about imitation extensively.

*Brothers, join in imitating me, and keep your eyes on those who walk according to the example you have in us. Philippians 3:17

*Follow the pattern of the sound words that you have heard from me, in the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus. 2 Timothy 1:13

*Be imitators of me, as I am of Christ. 1 Corinthians 11:1

Regardless of the success we might have as a church, we must look at our own walk with the Lord and ask ourselves, "Am I doing all I can to make copies?" Paul was always about making copies – making new disciples. Imitate my way. Imitate me as I imitate Christ.

One thing I notice about copiers: no matter how good the copier is, if you make a copy of a copy of a copy and on and on, eventually you get deterioration. The copy 20 times removed from the original doesn't look nearly as good as the first. So we don't want to imitate Jerry, who imitates Billy Graham, who imitates Charles Spurgeon, who imitates John Calvin, who imitates Augustine, who imitates Eusebius who imitates John who was an apostle of Jesus. You get my drift? You imitate Christ so that you are a good example to follow and so that someone can follow you. Your goal, however, is to get that person who is imitating you to learn to bypass you and know Jesus so well that he/she will begin to imitate the original!

Imitating Christ isn't about becoming Christ. It is reflecting Christ. As John the Baptist said, "He must increase and I must decrease." It is never about me; it is always about Jesus.

Jesus own words: "For I have given you an example, that you also should do just as I have done to you." John 13:15

As I close, let me give you an example of NOT imitating Christ. Valley Falls was recently visited by the folks from WBC. Every time I see that group, I never see Jesus. I never see love. I never see grace. I never see humility. I never see forgiveness. I never see compassion. I never see kindness.

Jesus came full of truth and grace, not just truth or just grace. Truth (especially when it is only a very small amount of truth) without grace is not imitating Christ, it is imitating the Pharisees. When I see that group, I see judgment and condemnation. I see coarseness and hatred. I see pride and self promotion. I see Pharisees. Jesus did not call us to make more Pharisees. He called us to make Jesus followers – disciples.

So let's be the best copy of Jesus we can be so we can teach others to be copies of Jesus. Don't go into 'sleep mode' and not wake up. Put aside self and unashamedly share Jesus with the world. Always remember, I must decrease so Jesus can increase.

EVERYTHING I NEED TO KNOW ABOUT LIFE, I LEARNED FROM NOAH'S ARK

1. Don't miss the boat.
2. Remember that we are all in the same boat.
3. Plan ahead. It wasn't raining when Noah built the Ark.
4. Stay fit. When you're 600 years old, someone may ask you to do something really big.
5. Don't listen to critics; just get on with the job that needs to be done.

RETURN SERVICE REQUESTED

6. Build your future on high ground.
7. For safety's sake, travel in pairs.
8. Speed isn't always an advantage. The snails were on board with the cheetahs.
9. When you're stressed, float a while.
10. Remember, the Ark was built by amateurs; the Titanic by professionals.
11. No matter the storm, when you are with God, there's always a rainbow waiting.
